EBSCO accused of including smut in school databases

EBSCO Information Services, generally doesn't make the news. Instead the Ipswich company collects news stories and other published information in databases that it sells to schools, libraries and businesses.

But now EBSCO is under fire from parents and conservative activists who say its databases for schools contain hard-core pornography. Schools in Colorado have stopped using EBSCO, while a parents group there sued the company earlier this month.

A conservative organization is warning fellow Pennsylvanians that the country's largest abortion chain is trying to get an audience with high school students.

Diane Gramley of the American Family Association of Pennsylvania tells OneNewsNow the organization is fighting efforts by Planned Parenthood to establish "health resource centers" in public school districts across the state.

Planned Parenthood is partnering with Access Matters, a Pennsylvania-based feminist group that states on its website its mission is "transforming access to sexual and reproductive health."

'No thanks' – School board to campus condom distributor

Thanks to the efforts of a Pennsylvania pro-family organization, an affiliate of Planned Parenthood was banned from opening a "health resource center" in a local high school.

AccessMatters, a Philadelphia-based partner of Planned Parenthood, petitioned the Valley Grove School Board to let them establish a clinic in the high school. Once she learned that, Diane Gramley of American Family Association of Pennsylvania went into action and helped halt the proposal.

"The Valley Grove School District, on the 11th of February, decided that there were just too many unanswered questions and concerns of privacy – and they decided not to give the green light for the establishment of those clinics in the high school," Gramley informs. (See earlier story)

Not in Our Schools: Stop the Planned Parenthood Invasion

Ms. Peggy McClain has been investigating and reporting on the hyper-sexualization of Arizona's school children for several years. She has worked very hard to open the eyes of parents who find it hard to believe that their child's school could possibly be a physically and emotionally dangerous place. Some parents sense that something is wrong, but their common sense is overridden by the assurances of the "experts," especially because they are so nice about it. Until, that is, the parent continues to express their concerns. Ms. McClain helps parents refuse to be manipulated and take charge of their children's education. See Delphi Technique - Anyone Who Wants to be Involved in Their Child's Education Should Understand This.

Ultimately, young women who have had an abortion know that they have ended the life of their own child. It is an agonizing fact they must live with for the rest of their lives, no matter how much Planned Parenthood and other abortionists try to dehumanize that child, even to the point of outright lying. See Abortion Facility Misleads Women, Showing Them Deceiving Depictions of Fetal Development.

Today's young people need to know that one-third of their generation has been wiped out by abortion.

Even the schools in Arizona are trying to "normalize" promiscuity, sexual experimentation, and abortion. If your common sense tells you that this is wrong, you are right. No matter which school your child is attending, I urge you to review Ms. McClain's blog, Not in Our Schools, which is updated frequently. Is Planned Parenthood controlling an Arizona school district's sex ed curriculum?

Cave Creek's sexual education curriculum attracted attention for mentions of homophobia, oral and anal sex. But where did the attention come from? (Photo: Getty Images)

Internet chatter suggests something salacious is afoot in Cave Creek schools.

"Cave Creek, AZ schools partnering with Planned Parenthood," reads one blog headline in part. "Cave Creek Schools... Woops, they were caught," reads another. "Here are the secret changes to Cave Creek's sex ed curriculum."

The posts are all published on the same blog, "Not in our schools," a site dedicated to stopping what it calls a "Planned Parenthood invasion."

But officials say there is no Planned Parenthood invasion in Cave Creek, a school district north of Scottsdale with about 5,400 students.

This week, Cave Creek's school board approved changes to the district's human growth and development curriculum after a few months of debate. A flurry of online speculation appears to have magnified the district's attempt to modernize its curriculum, which was last updated in 2002.

"It's not brand new curriculum," Cara Herkamp, the district's director of curriculum, said. "We felt it necessary to bring the program up-to-speed from 2002, especially with the advent of things like social media and sexting."

Friedrichs appeared Sunday on Fox News Channel's "The Next Revolution" with Steve Hilton to discuss how corrupt teachers' unions inject their agenda into every aspect of the education system and beyond. Watch the full interview here.

When asked about the school choice debate, Rebecca stated, "There's only one reason America does not have school choice teachers' unions state and national teachers' unions."

According to Rebecca, state and national teachers' unions employ teachers' dues money to plan, lobby for and enact a radical leftist social, sexual and political agenda. This is
