PCHC Webinar: Getting Obscenity Exemptions Repealed

Mary E. McAlister, Esq., Senior Litigation Counsel, Liberty Counsel

Review of Obscenity Exemptions & Why They Need To Be Repealed

- Obscene: Material which deals with sex in a manner appealing to "prurient interest."
- Not protected by 1st Amendment, can be banned.
- Supreme Court—even "fleeting" expletives are harmful to children and must be banned from broadcasts if children are in the audience.
- Federal agencies, Supreme Court, Congress and state legislatures paid particular attention to the effect of obscenity/indecency on children by adopting laws and regulations imposing additional fines, penalties, jail time for those who provide materials deemed "harmful to minors."
- State harmful to minors laws initially included exemptions for law enforcement, medicine for needs for investigation of crimes, victims.

Review of Obscenity Exemptions & Why They Need To Be Repealed

- 44 states have expanded exemptions to provide no criminal liability if the materials are used for "educational" purposes, as part of courses of instruction and/or in libraries in K-12 schools, not just university research. Alaska, Arizona, Missouri, New Jersey, Oklahoma & Rhode Island do not have such exemptions.
- Five basic types, listed in table alphabetically, generally exempting either people providing the material or the institutions or both.
- Therefore, a person providing obscene/indecent materials to a child faces fines and jail time for "harming" the child, EXCEPT when the person is a teacher, librarian, lecturer, consultant, etc. providing the materials in an "educational" context.
- These educational exemptions originated in 1962 in the Model Penal Code, which was a template of proposed laws developed by consortium of legal, behavioral scientists, medical professionals, judges, etc.

Review of Obscenity Exemptions & Why They Need To Be Repealed

- Model Penal Code provisions, including obscenity exemptions, were drafted in response to Kinsey's books, which were hailed as "scientific" evidence of need to completely revise "outdated" morality based sex offense laws.
- In fact Kinsey's books were unscientific, unsound propaganda based on interviews with deviant populations and diaries from serial pedophiles.
- Kinsey's books also led to development of "sexology" field which trains "sex educators" who create materials advocating the Kinsey worldview that children are sexual from birth and should learn about all kinds of sex acts in explicit detail. They infiltrate the schools to replace parents as educators of children.
- Obscenity exemptions permit these materials to proliferate and expand to include "young adult" novels, lectures, films, textbooks and internet content in all subject areas. This means that "opting out" of "sex ed" does not protect children from these materials.
- We must act to protect children by repealing the exemptions.

Questions from First Webinar:

"Contemporary Community Standards"

The content of Social Media is now considered to be every community's standard. Isn't the internet dictating community standards regardless of what local citizens want?

- The issue of contemporary community standards comes into play when determining whether particular materials are "obscene" or "harmful to minors" once the exemptions are repealed or if there are no exemptions in a particular state.
- The intent of the factor is that what is appropriate material should be based upon the average person in the community, as opposed to someone who is extra sensitive or someone who is desensitized. Generally, think of getting together 12 people in your local community and showing them certain material and asking them whether it is obscene either for adults or children.
- The Court specifically rejected applying a "national standard," such as what social media considers "obscene," noting that what is permitted in one part of the country, e.g., San Francisco, will be regarded as obscene in another community, e.g., Omaha, and such diversity should be respected so as to not dilute First Amendment protections.

Questions from First Webinar:

Would the issue of "community standards" even come into play when we are talking about removing these exemptions? Couldn't we use the science on the brain?

- Community standards are relevant to the question of whether something would be considered "obscene" or "harmful to minors" once the exemption is repealed, or if the state doesn't have an exemption. The factor would still have to be considered unless/until the Supreme Court changes the standard. Certainly, evidence of contemporary scientific, true scientific, findings on the harm done to children's brains by sexually explicit material would be valuable in making that determination.
- Such evidence would be particularly valuable in a community which has not been as affected by sexual indoctrination as another [if such places still exist] to show that for children in that community, exposure to the material in question would be particularly damaging, i.e., harmful.
- Courts have permitted expert testimony on contemporary community standards, although it is not required.

Questions from First Webinar:

"Scientific Value for Minors:" Lacking "scientific value" for minors? In addition to "educational information," can we use new emerging scientific information from brain science to fight obscenity based on its "lacking in scientific value?"

"Scientific value for minors" refers to the third factor in the Miller test for defining whether something is obscene for minors. This would come into play after an obscenity exemption is repealed, or if there is no exemption and we are trying to prove that the material in question is "obscene." As well as proving that it appeals to the "prurient interest" in sex and that it is a patently offensive depiction, we would have to prove that the materials lack serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value for minors.

It is a question of whether the book, image, internet posting, etc. viewed as a whole portrays something that teaches scientific (or educational, artistic, etc.) concepts that are valuable for the audience. For example, a cutaway drawing of the human body is scientifically valuable for learning anatomy, even if it depicts genitalia. However, a depiction of various sexual positions or a demonstration of how to put on a condom as a whole is not scientifically or educationally valuable, particularly in light of the brain research showing the harm such images cause.

Review of Selected Proposed Bills to Repeal Obscenity Exemptions

- Model bills available for all 50 states and D.C. prepared by Liberty Counsel summer intern and LU Law student.
- Proposed bills are state-specific and follow drafting conventions for each state. Provide a starting point for discussions with legislators. No "reinventing the wheel."
- For 6 states without exemptions, bills have been drafted to specifically state that schools are not exempt from harmful to minors laws.
- Should be vetted with members of team and ideally with legislator or former legislator for best wording and presentation, i.e., which committee would be best to assign to for maximum chance of passage.
- Are drafted as part of the criminal law since that is where the obscenity laws and exemptions are located. Team could consider revising to create a civil action, such as a tort claim, if more likely to gain approval.

Proposed Bill To Remove Exemptions In Nebraska

TITLE: Remove defenses that allow the dissemination of obscene materials to minors in schools or libraries.

A BILL FOR AN ACT relating to obscenity offenses; to amend section 28-815, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska; to remove defenses that allow a public or private school or a public or school library to disseminate obscene material.

Be it enacted by the people of the State of Nebraska,

Section 1. Section 28-815, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

It shall be a defense to a prosecution under section 28-813 that:

(1) Such person's activity consists of teaching in regularly established and recognized educational institutions, institutions of higher learning, college libraries, university libraries, or galleries or libraries, or the publication or use of standard textbooks, films, tapes or visual aids of any such institution, or the practice of licensed practitioners of medicine or of pharmacy in their regular business or profession, or the possession by established institutions of higher learning schools teaching art, or by public art galleries, or artists or models in the necessary line of their art, or to relevant references to, or accounts or portrayal of, nudity, sex, or excretion in religion, art, literature, history, science, medicine, counseling services, public health, law, the judicial process, law enforcement, institutions of higher learning, education, public libraries, or news reports and news pictures by any form of news media of general circulation

Proposed Bill Creating New Offense in New Jersey

Purpose: This bill would prohibit the exposure of obscene material or performances to minors in a public or private elementary, middle, or secondary school.

TITLE: Creates a new offense concerning the exposure of obscene material or performances to minors in a public or private elementary, middle, or secondary school; provides a penalty.

Be it Enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

- b. A person affiliated with a public or private elementary, middle, or secondary school in an official capacity who knowingly disseminates to a student material which that person knows, or reasonably should know, to be obscene is guilty of a crime of the third degree.
- c. It shall not be a defense to liability under this act that the materials disseminated were labelled as curriculum, approved for educational use, or otherwise described as for educational, scientific, or artistic purposes.

Proposed Bill Repealing Exemption in South Carolina

A BILL

TO AMEND SECTION 16-15-385, AS AMENDED, CODE OF LAWS OF SOUTH CAROLINA, 1976, RELATING TO DISSEMINATING HARMFUL MATERIALS TO MINORS, SO AS TO CHANGE EXEMPTIONS WHICH ALLOW THE DISSEMINATION OF MATERIALS HARMFUL TO MINORS AT AN ELEMENTARY, MIDDLE, OR SECONDARY SCHOOL, AT A PUBLIC OR ELEMENTARY, MIDDLE, OR SECONDARY SCHOOL LIBRARY, OR AT A CHURCH.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Section 16-15-385 of the 1976 Code is amended to read

- C) Except as provided in item (3) of this subsection, mistake of age is not a defense to a prosecution under this section. It is an affirmative defense under this section that:
- (1) the defendant was a parent or legal guardian of a minor, but this item does not apply when the parent or legal guardian exhibits or disseminates the harmful material for the sexual gratification of the parent, guardian, or minor.
- (2) the defendant was a school, college, university, church, museum, public, school, college, or university library, government agency, medical clinic, or hospital carrying out its legitimate function, or an employee or agent of such an organization acting in that capacity and carrying out a legitimate duty of his employment.
- (3) the defendant was a pastor, clergy member, or religious leader affiliated with a church and was conducting a counseling, healing, or therapy session.

Presentation of Proposed Bill to Legislators

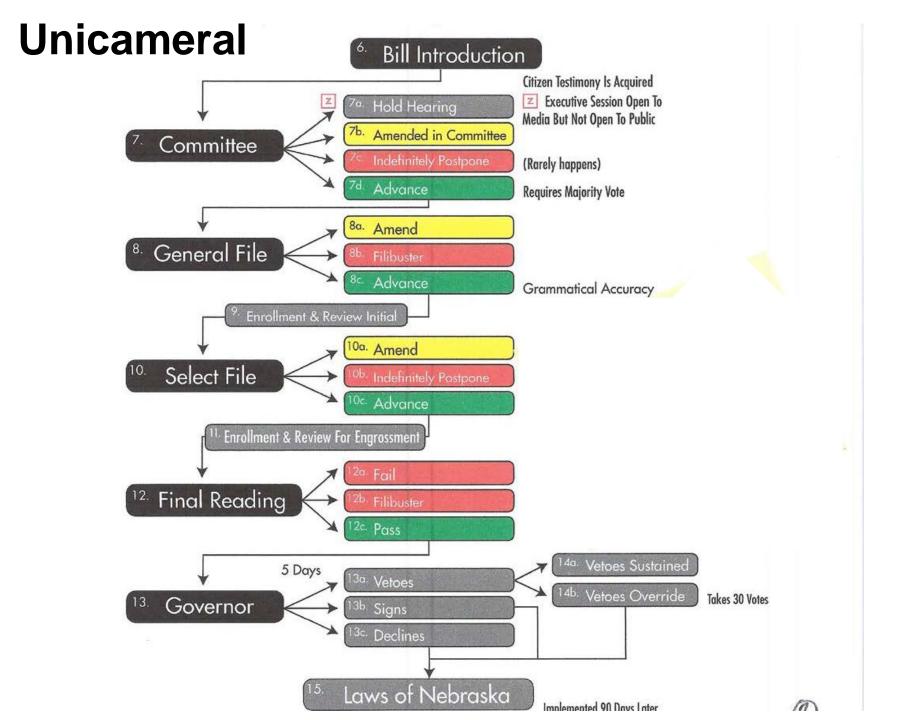

- Research legislators and decide on one or two best conservatives from each house of the legislature to approach and discuss the bill and possible sponsorship.
- Schedule a meeting with Legislator's staff with plan for meeting with Legislator (Webinar #4 will cover this in detail).
- Assemble documents to present to legislator to urge sponsorship of the bill:
 - Copy of current law;
 - Copy of proposed bill as edited by your team;
 - Copies of sample "bad" curriculum, books, internet screen shots, etc. to show what is being shown to students, e.g. copy of It's Perfectly Normal;
 - Any petitions or testimonials from parents in the state about the need to repeal the exemption.
 - News reports, articles about bad consequences of the materials—student on student assaults, increases in STDs, etc.
- Role play (see video Webinar #1) meeting until comfortable.

Legislative Process "How a Bill Becomes a Law"

- Unicameral Legislature

 One House

 Nebraska
- Bicameral Legislature—Two Houses—All others
 - Usually House & Senate comparable to House of Representatives and Senate in US Congress
 - Generally bills can be introduced in either house first and if approved is sent over to other house for consideration.
 - Strategic decision—which house would be most advantageous to begin with?
- Find Flowchart for your state (some examples follow). Google "how a bill becomes a law in [name of state] flowchart"—usually created by policy organizations or universities.
- Legislature Websites have narratives on process.
